

The Richard Whitmore Memorial Award Scholarship 2024

Securing ongoing development and training for our future

This award is named in memory of Richard Whitmore. Richard was a long term local government employee who had a passion for rates and was dedicated to the need for training in all aspects of local government rate levying and collection.

When Richard decided in 1995 that he was going to leave local government employment, he was convinced by other rating professionals that he should maintain his enthusiasm to the industry by providing training to ensure that new and existing members in local government could be given consistent and adequate training in the requirements of the local government sector. The focus of that training was to ensure that councils complied with the requirements of the Local Government Act 1993, calculation and levying of rates and the various other functions required in a rating office.

After several years Richard decided retirement looked a better option and wandered off to continue writing music and living in the Blue Mountains.

In 2003, Richard was once again called upon to consider providing training. Due to his passion for rating and his belief that all councils and their staff were entitled to be given a level of training commensurate with the degree of importance in which rates play, Richard was eventually convinced that he still had something to offer. Richard then set out to write training manuals for the purpose of delivery to Local Government staff.

It is these manuals and Richard's original training that formed the building blocks of our training material.

Soon after the conference in 2009, Richard became ill and sadly passed away in June 2011, this scholarship is made in memory of his exceptional passion and dedication.
